THE CORE FRAMEWORK

The 10-Part VSL Architecture That Closes Consistently

Every high-converting VSL follows this exact sequence. Skip a step and conversions drop. Add a step in the wrong place and you kill momentum. This is the order — follow it exactly.

0 — 15 SECONDS

The Pattern Interrupt Hook

Say something so unexpected in the first 3 words that scrolling becomes physically impossible. The brain is wired to finish things it starts — so open a loop it desperately wants to close.

> EXAMPLE
> "Stop. I need 60 seconds to show you the one thing your competitors are doing that you almost certainly aren't — and it's costing you thousands every single month."

15 — 60 SECONDS

The Pain Amplifier

Name the exact frustration your buyer feels daily. Be specific enough that they think you're talking only to them. Don't invent pain — excavate the one they already carry.

> EXAMPLE
> "You've tried the content calendar, the posting schedule, the engagement hacks. Still the same 200 views. Still the same $0 from social. You're not doing it wrong — you're doing the wrong thing entirely."

60 — 90 SECONDS

The Big Promise Statement

State the single most powerful outcome your product delivers. Bold, specific, credible. If it doesn't make them lean forward, it's not bold enough.

> EXAMPLE
> "What I'm about to show you lets complete beginners create scroll-stopping AI video funnels in under 20 minutes — without touching a camera, hiring a writer, or spending a dollar on ads to test them."

90 — 180 SECONDS

The Story Bridge

Your story or a customer story. Before → after. Keep it real, keep it human. This is where trust is built — not with facts, but with recognition. They need to see themselves in the story.

> EXAMPLE
> "Six months ago I was paying $3,000 a month to a video production agency. Three-week turnarounds. Revisions that went nowhere. By the time the video was done, the campaign was already over."

180 — 300 SECONDS

The Proof Stack

Results, screenshots, testimonials, case studies. Stack them fast and specific. Vague claims kill credibility. Specific numbers (not round ones) build it.

> EXAMPLE
> "Marcus used this exact method last month and generated $14,300 in his first week. Sarah, a 52-year-old with zero tech experience, built her first video funnel in 18 minutes and made her first sale the same day."

300 — 420 SECONDS

The Mechanism Reveal

Show WHY your solution works when everything else failed. Give it a name. The "mechanism" is your proprietary approach — it separates you from every other offer in the category.

> EXAMPLE
> "We call it the Consistent Actor Framework. Instead of stitching together random clips, you build an entire video funnel around one AI actor — same face, same voice, same energy — from the 15-second hook to the 10-minute VSL."

420 — 540 SECONDS

7

The Offer Stack

Present everything they get, one piece at a time, stacking perceived value with each addition. Never lead with price. Make the value so obvious that the price is the punchline.

> EXAMPLE
> "You get the full platform — that's $97 a month anywhere else. You get the done-for-you actor templates — that's another $197. You get the script wizard — another $97. But you're not paying any of that today."

8

540 — 600 SECONDS

The Objection Crusher

Address every reason they won't buy before they articulate it. The three killers: "This won't work for me," "I don't have time," and "I've tried things like this before." Disarm each one specifically.

> EXAMPLE
> "I hear you — 'I'm not tech-savvy.' Perfect. This was built for people who feel that way. If you can type a sentence, you can run this. We even have an 18-minute proof of that in our case studies."

600 — 630 SECONDS

The Urgency Trigger

Real scarcity, real deadline, real reason. Manufactured urgency is detectable and kills trust. If the deal is launch pricing, say why it goes up. If it's limited licenses, say exactly how many remain.

> EXAMPLE
> "This launch pricing closes permanently in 48 hours. When the timer hits zero, the price triples and stays there. There's no second chance on this — it's how we reward the people who decide fast."

10

630 — 660 SECONDS

The CTA Close

One action. Say it three times minimum. Tell them exactly what to click, what happens next, and what their life looks like on the other side. Remove all friction from the decision.

> EXAMPLE

> "Click the button below right now. Enter your details. You'll have full access in under 2 minutes. In one hour from now you could have your first AI video funnel live. Click the button. Do it now."

⚠ Pro Tip: Don't just render one VSL. Use the framework to create a 3-video funnel: a 15-second hook ad, a 2-minute bridge video, and the full VSL. All three use the same actor. Synthesys Actors was built for exactly this — and this blueprint tells you exactly what to say in each one.

PRE-LAUNCH CHECKLIST

Before You Hit Record — Run This

1. Hook test: Read your first 15 seconds out loud. If a stranger wouldn't stop what they're doing to keep listening — rewrite it.
2. Pain specificity: Replace any phrase like "struggling with X" with a scene: where are they, what are they thinking, what did they just try that didn't work?
3. Proof stack: Every claim needs a number. "It works" becomes "It works — Sarah made $1,840 in her first 4 days." Never round numbers — $1,840 is more believable than $2,000.
4. Mechanism check: Is your unique method named and explained? If your solution sounds like 10 others in the market, you need a clearer mechanism reveal.
5. CTA audit: Count how many times you say exactly what to click. If it's fewer than 3, add more. Buyers need to be told clearly, repeatedly, and specifically what to do next.
